Who are we to judge?

We are people who care about our legal system and the cases that are brought every day in courthouses all over the country.

We are people who share an interest in the real-life human drama of real cases affecting real parties.

We are people who want to assist parties in realistically assessing their cases and resolving their disputes.

We are people who have legitimate concerns, rational opinions, and invaluable input that could be useful and important to lawyers and parties.

We are people who make up the juries that decide cases throughout the country.

And we are here, at Legalvote.com.
